

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a polymer blend containing a high ethylene content ethylene-propylene copolymer and a lower ethylene content ethylene-propylene copolymer. The 5 polymer blend of the present invention is useful for the preparation of viscosity index improvers with improved lower temperature properties relative to conventional viscosity index improvers.